

3:33

< Mom Mumbai Mirror_2020_05_22.pdf

vy for the p
and the nev
media can be a l
to navigate. Its t
that one perhap humour. Enter t
dail Ke Chutkul
being held or women con
weekly ne

View interesting artworks

Navigating Geometries is an ongoing online exhibition organised by Tarq gallery on their website. The group show explores the role of architecture in our lives. This is inspired by how our private spaces have been turned public due to Covid-19, as we now work, eat and socialise from our own homes. Participating artists include Boshudhara Mukherjee, Muzzumil Ruheel, Pratap Morey, Saju Kunhan, Samit Das, Tanmoy Samanta and Vishwa Shroff. For a more immersive experience, do check out the gallery on Instagram (@tarqmumbai), where artists discuss in-depth about their works and how it relates to the world we live in right now. On till May 26. Visit: www.tarq.in

Read free comics

Scooby Dooby Do, where are you? Well, apparently on your smartphone or tablet, that too for free. DC Comics is providing access to over 250 Scooby Doo comics on its app right now — you don't even need to register, just download the app. While it looks like part of some promotional campaign for the new movie on everyone's favourite Great Dane, with plenty of stories for children to read. For most of us, too, it's a nice throwback. Catch up on the adventures of Scooby, Shaggy, Velma, Daphne and Fred (sure, Scrappy gets his due from time to time), you have till the first week of September to devour all the comics for free. Available till September 7. Download the DC Comics app on iOS and android platforms.

To feature an event on this page, send the de